White Construction Group Awarded Kiowa Library Restoration Project

CASTLE ROCK, Colo., Nov. 21, 2005 – White Construction Group, a Colorado-based construction firm specializing in commercial construction, design-build, historic restorations and tenant improvement projects, has been awarded the Kiowa Library Restoration project. Steve DeThomas will serve as project manager, and Josh Reitz will serve as project superintendent.

The project involves installing additional concrete masonry unit (CMU) supports in crawl spaces, restoring exterior wood and stained-glass windows, providing a new front entry door and frame, refinishing all exterior wood trim, replacing roofing, installing a new ceiling on this historic building, and painting interior walls. The project also involves stone restoration work, including repairing stonework, tuck pointing mortar joints, removing plant growth, and cleaning exposed stone surfaces. This is a State Historical Fund project and will be completed in December 2005.

Project partners include:

- Client: Elbert County Library District, Elizabeth, Colo.
- Architect: Humphries Poli Architects, PC, Denver, Colo.
