White Construction Group Adds New Vice President of Business Development To Better Address Double-digit Growth

CASTLE ROCK, Colo., April 5, 2005 – White Construction Group, a Colorado-based construction firm specializing in commercial construction, design-build, historic restoration and tenant improvement projects, today announced that Travis Martinez has joined the company as Vice President of Business Development.

“Travis Martinez is a real up and comer, and his energetic approach to business and his ethics blend beautifully with White Construction Group’s emphasis on integrity, intelligence and innovation,” noted Tim White, company president. “In 2004 alone, White Construction Group came close to doubling its annual revenues and opened a satellite office in Brighton to more fully address all the business opportunities. The addition of Travis Martinez as the new vice president of business development is part of our drive to continue to grow the company in an intelligent and thoughtful manner.”

Most recently, Martinez served as director of membership for the Denver-based Chamber of the Americas, a multinational trade organization focusing on opening free trade between South America, Central America, Mexico, Canada and the United States. In this role, Martinez was responsible for working with companies throughout the region to promote international trade and to build the membership for the chamber.

Concurrently, Martinez also worked as a broker associate for Coldwell Banker Commercial. Here, he was responsible for development of the company's Healthcare Services Division, which was built to focus on business development activities springing up around Sky Ridge Medical Center and the Parker Adventist Hospital.

Martinez gained property management experience while overseeing the day-to-day maintenance and leasing of Mountain View Plaza, a 20,000-square-foot retail complex in Keystone, Colo., for Castle Rock-based Great Southwestern, Inc.

Early in his career, Martinez worked as a production assistant for Liberty Livewire Studio, and Television and Film Studios, both located in Los Angeles.

Martinez graduated from the University of Colorado in Boulder in 2000 with a Bachelor of Arts. Additional training and courses of study include a certificate in construction management from Colorado State University in 2004 and a Colorado real estate license from Jones College. Martinez also served as an intern on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C. in 1998.
