White Construction Group Completes Crook's Palace Bar in Black Hawk

CASTLE ROCK, Colo., August 8, 2006 – White Construction Group, a Colorado-based construction firm specializing in commercial construction, design-build, historic restorations and tenant improvement projects, announces the completion of restoration and renovation to Crook's Palace Bar in Black Hawk, the oldest saloon Colorado.

The project restored the original ambience of this early 1900s saloon where it is rumored that the ornate wooden bar is from a saloon in St. Louis, Mo. where Billy the Kid once hung his hat. Despite a flood in 1910, the saloon continued to operate into the 1990s when gaming came to Black Hawk. The project included the restoration of masonry and woodwork, the addition of a kitchen and dining room, and the erection of a 35-foot stacked rock wall to create additional parking. An item that draws patrons to the bar is the replicated vintage wallpaper with hidden images that was created by utilizing computer software.

The project manager was Doug Decker and the project superintendent was Jason Maxwell. The project is valued at $2.6 million.

Project partners include:

- Owner: City of Black Hawk, Colo.
- Architect: PEH Architects, Boulder, Colo.
